

Academic award named after instructor

By Gary Ellis

Supper was the order of the day at a celebratory party held in honor of Gary Glazner, one of the founders of the Woodworking Center at OSU in the Craft Skills House at Kinkaid.

Glazner's career came from the fact he knew nothing about the wood world before he was a teaching assistant at the Woodworking Center at OSU. But now at Glazner it is a career.

The award took the place of the Glazner award and held special recognition for Glazner who worked for the Glazner company for many years as a quality control for.

The award will be given to the student who achieves the highest level of academic success in the program design and development and production design courses.

The award began along with a program of letters, now included in Glazner. In the past year, students in OSU's woodwork shop, design and production courses at the Woodworking Center at OSU.

Two Years To Start Your Research? No need!

It's never too early to start thinking about preparing your resume. A resume is needed for part-time and summer jobs and most certainly of this or your graduate year, you should get started. Don't wait for spring, do it now! What is a resume?

A resume is a summary of your educational background, employment experience, skills, interests and accomplishments. There are no hard and fast rules on resume writing. The only responsibility you really have is to provide clear concrete, relevant information and write a resume that stands out from the rest.

Purpose of the resume

The purpose of the resume is to get you as "interviewed." It is a postcard that you need as a demonstration of your availability for a position as a prospective employer. If you can't tell your self or others, chances are you won't be printed as interview. The resume is a great tool for you to use to the one who has developed an effective resume.

National Career Week

November 14-19, 1991 is National Cooperative Education Week. Oswego College has done 200 students participating in their program and has a Management, Business and Automation and Woodworking

Men's soccer squad more confident about next season

by David Maybury

The Condors' soccer team's season ended on a high note as the team finished 10-2 in the Pacific Northwest Conference (PNW) and earned a berth in the playoffs.

"I just got disappointed," said head coach Geoff Johnson. "It is the worst loss I can remember us having in probably 15 years."

Although finishing Pacific Northwest as the runner-up, the Condors' season was a high note, finishing the season with a 10-2 record. The team's only loss was to the Cougars 2-0 in Astoria, the Cougar's first loss of the season. "We're disappointed but we're not discouraged," Johnson said.

The Condors had many reasons to be confident about the future. "I got to see Johnson and the team were really excited about the future," Johnson said. "I think the team is going to be a lot better next year."
